Webinar:
Grief, Loss, and Hospice Care for Individuals with ID

This webinar offers an overview of hospice care, grief, grief support and how it can help individuals with intellectual disabilities cope during these difficult times.

Throughout the presentation Amy Tucci and Kenneth Doka from the Hospice Foundation of America will touch upon the special issues involving access and services for individuals with ID and focus on the ways that families and persons with ID can more effectively utilize the services of hospice care, such as supportive counseling, pain management, and symptom control as well as grief counseling.

Learn about their new CE credited educational program that deals with the challenges of accessing end-of-life care and bereavement support for individuals with ID.

Mental Health Month

Each year millions of Americans face the reality of living with a mental illness. During May, NAMI and the rest of the country are raising awareness of mental health. Each year we fight stigma, provide support, educate the public and advocate for policies that support people with mental illness and their families.

Skin Breakdown

Nurse Carrie Browder

Did you know that the skin is the largest organ in the body? Skin acts as a protective barrier against infection and trauma and helps regulate temperature variations from the environment. It maintains hydration and is associated with overall health and well-being.

Promoting skin integrity and preventing skin breakdown is paramount in maintaining quality of life.

Risk factors

Risk factors for skin breakdown include age, lack of sensory perception, weight loss, immobility, poor nutrition and hydration, excess moisture and/or dryness, bowel and urinary incontinence, medical conditions, and exposure to shear and/or friction. Individuals with the following conditions/in the following situations are at risk for developing skin breakdown:

Skills for Living...and Working

As you transition to work, life skills such as problem solving and decision-making, effective communication, financial management and coping strategies become more important than ever. Many young adults age 18 through 35 are either living on their own or becoming more independent for the first time.

While parents and other family members of youth with disabilities play a large role in teaching these skills, there are many organizations ready to assist with additional life skills training.

Parent Survey

The Virginia Department of Education (VDOE) is asking for your assistance in promoting the completion of the survey by each of your families who has a child with a disability and is provided special education services through an individualized education program (IEP) by whatever means you deem appropriate. Families who have more than one child receiving special education services should be afforded the opportunity to complete a survey for each of their children.

Collection of survey data may begin immediately upon receipt of the printed survey and the opening of the online survey. This year’s timeline for completion and submission of survey responses, in any modality, is set at September 30, 2018. The VDOE has renewed its goal of increasing the number of survey responses we receive. As such, during the collection window, the VDOE will engage in a number of technical assistance outreach efforts to parents and parent organizations to ensure that every parent of a child with a disability in the Commonwealth has the opportunity to participate in the survey.

Thank you for your ongoing commitment toward ensuring that we involve each parent in his/her child’s special education program. If you have questions or need assistance concerning this survey process, please contact Hank Millward via email at Hank.Millward@doe.virginia.gov or by telephone at (804) 371-0525.
