

Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs

Physiological Needs

Needs which are required for human survival such as:

- Air
- Food
- Water
- Shelter
- Clothing
- Sleep

Safety Needs

Needs that provide a person with a sense of security, well-being, and freedom from physical and emotional harm:

- Living in a safe area
- Medical insurance
- Job security
- Financial reserves
- Good health
- Protection from harm

Belongingness and Love (Social) Needs

Once a person has met the lower level of needs, higher level motivators awaken. Social needs are needs related to interaction with others and may include friendship, a sense of family and community, and intimacy. These are important to humans so that they do not feel alone, isolated, and depressed.

Esteem Needs

After a person feels that they belong, the urge to attain a degree of important emerges. Esteem needs can be categorized as external or internal motivators. Esteem needs are the need for self-esteem and respect and may include:

External Motivator

- Recognition
- Attention
- Social Status

Internal Motivator

- Accomplishment
- Self-Respect

Self-Actualization

The quest of reaching one's full potential as a person leads to the summit of Maslow's motivation theory. Unlike lower level needs, this need is never fully satisfied; as one grows psychologically, there are always new opportunities to grow. Self-actualized people tend to have motivators such as:

- Truth
- Justice
- Wisdom
- Meaning

Self-actualized people have frequent occurrences of peak experiences, which are energized moments of profound happiness and harmony.
